HUNS UNABLE TO BREAK DESPERATE RESISTANCE ABOUT THE LATTER TOWN

FRENCH PEOPLE PAY HOMAGE TO AMERICA

By Associated Press.

The Germans last night renewed their powerful attacks in the Montdidier region where their wedge has been pushed farthest towards Paris and a great battle is raging along a 25-mile front on both sides of the salient which has Montdidier at its point. The French backed up by powerful reserves are offering a desperate resistance to the German blow.

Apparently the French line has been forced back slightly on the northern edge of this front as the Paris official report of the battle mentions the town of Moreuil as forming a part of the line here. This place is on the Avre river, about 11 miles southeast of Amiens, and its occupation by the Germans would advance them slightly nearer that allied base.

The German assaults in this region seem a logical outcome of the strategic position in which the teutons find themselves and their line virtually is open all the way back to the Oise, offering an inviting objective for an allied counter blow. It apparently was a case of attack or be attacked and they have taken the initiative.

To the north, along the British front, the situation is virtually unchanged. At only one point, just about where the French and British lines join, did the Germans make any advance, pushing a short distance to the Roye-Amiens road in the direction of the latter place and occupying the village of Mezieres and the hamlet of Maison Blanche, just to the north.

TENTH DAY FINDS SITUATION ENCOURAGING.

LONDON, March 30.—Although the London newspapers regard the situation on the western front as still serious there is noticeable a tone of greater confidence in their discussion of the battle now in its 10th day. The Daily Mail devotes particular attention to the fighting in the direction of Amiens which it regards as the most important. The Daily Mail says:

"Until Montdidier is recovered and the Germans are beaten back from recent positions east of Amiens the situation must remain serious. French reserves continuously are arriving and entering the battle but as yet the German advance cannot be said to have been stopped."

The Daily Graphic believes that today's news is distinctly encouraging, while the Daily Telegraph says:

"The week ends fairly well. It has been the most breathless and anxious time for the Allies since the opening day of the war, but the enemy has been slowed up and every day that passes strengthens our confidence the more."

BRITISH DRIVEN FROM MEZIERES.

LONDON, March 30.—The Germans attacking yesterday at Demuin and Mezieres pressed the British from Mezieres, the war office announces. All the enemy attempts to capture Demuin broke down after sharp fighting which lasted through the afternoon.

Mezieres is in the sector south of the Somme where the principal gains of the Germans in the last few days have been made. It is 10 miles north of Montdidier.

RESERVES COME TO AID OF FRENCH.

PARIS, March 30.—French troops supported by reserves are offering desperate resistance to powerful assaults on the enemy, the war office announces.

MORE BODIES FOUND IN RUIN OF CHURCH.

PARIS, March 30.—Rescue parties at work in the church which was struck yesterday by a shell from a German long range gun have found more bodies. It is now known that 54 women were killed.

The shell struck the north side of the church, bringing down part of the roof and opening a breach 12 feet high and 20 feet wide. Nearly all the debris fell inward upon the heads of the worshippers 60 feet below.

FRENCH PAPERS LAUD OFFER OF PEESHING.

PARIS, March 30.—General Pershing's sincere and manly words in placing at the disposal of General Foch the entire resources of the American army has gone straight to the hearts of the French people who heartily love what the French call "l'offre américaine." The newspapers of all shades of opinion reflect this grateful appreciation both by the promise they give the instance and in their comment.

GREAT HEAPS OF DEAD GREET GERMAN RESERVES.

LONDON, March 30.—The Morning Post's correspondent in France draws a gruesome picture of battlefield conditions.

"Prisoners state that the countryside is full of bodies and that the air is filled with the odor of death," he writes. "Wells cannot be used, the ruined villages are impossible as

CANNOT STARVE OUT CENTRAL POWERS SAYS REV. BUCKNER

We Must Go On and On Until the Struggle for Human Freedom is Won.

CONDITIONS WERE CAUSE

Of Great Conflict; England Never Expected Outbreak; Had Troubles of Her Own, But Met Situation Bravely; Is Elated by America's Entry.

Rev. G. W. Buckner, pastor of the Christian church, in his lecture on "Great Britain and the World War," last evening, presented an audience of over 200 persons many new and illuminating viewpoints on the great conflict in which we are now a factor.

Preceding the introduction of the speaker by Mayor Duggan Mrs. Ross M. Lytle sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by James Charlesworth.

"This day—Good Friday—Rev. Buckner said in taking up the subject of his lecture, 'carries us back to the darkest hour of human history. While it is today Good Friday, it is also Bad Friday and Black Friday because of the outlook which is before us—the distressing spectacle of both parts of the human family tearing madly at the throat of the other part.'"

Declaring the present war to be a war neither of creeds nor races, for all creeds and many races are represented among the combatants of both sides, Rev. Buckner entered into a clearly stated review of political conditions prevailing in Europe between the close of the Franco-Prussian war in 1871 and the summer of 1914, pointing out how the development of "secret diplomacy," "concert of powers," and "balance of power" had culminated in the formation of the Triple Alliance of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy, the Dual Alliance of Great Britain and Russia and later the Entente between the nations now warring against Germany.

"England had no expectation in 1914 of a general war in Europe. She had troubles of her own to engage her attention," said the speaker. He then reviewed in turn the effects upon the minds of the various people of Great Britain of the government's handling of the church disestablishment bill, the temperance measure, woman suffrage and the Irish question, each of which had added to the unrest and impatience of the people, culminating in the province of Ulster, in civil war and a movement to set up an independent government. While dealing with the Irish question Rev. Buckner paid splendid tributes to Charles Stewart Parnell, who he said, had "a true Irish heart," a noble heart, and was one of the bravest and truest in the Irish cause, notwithstanding certain deficiencies of character. John Redmond he characterized as a "true statesman; truest of the true blue."

Touching briefly upon the events which immediately preceded the outbreak of hostilities Rev. Buckner declared that the question, "Who is to blame for the war?" involves so many factors that an answer to it can be given with no more definiteness than to the question, "How old is Ann?"

CLEVER RUSE TO AVOID 50-50 FLOUR RULE DOES NOT FOOL THIS GROCER

Some very clever tricks are worked on the grocers, usually but once, by a few persons who have the mistaken notion that they can put one over on the 50-50 flour rule.

A certain retail grocer reports a trick he discovered the other day. A customer ordered wheat flour and corn meal, in the required proportions, and when delivery was made refused to take the meal because it was "too coarse."

Supposing the reason for the refusal the grocer sent a sack of another grade of corn meal to the same consumer only to have it returned for the same reason for which the first was rejected. Being convinced that evasion of the 50-50 rule was being attempted he sent his driver to the customer with instructions to bring back the flour in case the consumer was unwilling to accept the corn meal. At this visit the consumer took the hint and decided to retain the meal.

SCARCITY OF HOUSES FOR RENT GREATLY REDUCES THE NUMBER OF FLITTINGS

Few Make Changes in Residence Section None in Business.

ONE IS MUCH IN DEMAND

The scarcity of houses in the city has reduced the number of moving this year and real estate men describe the situation as "something fierce. One house is hardly vacated until another tenant moves in. Business houses are also retaining their present locations."

There are some changes which will be made next week, however. Most families which now have a house consider themselves exceedingly fortunate and are content to remain. One real estate man yesterday in describing the situation said, "We have scores of inquiries every day. In the past few weeks I believe there has been someone in here every hour asking if we have a house for rent. Then there are many telephone inquiries."

An instance of one house changing hands three times in a single day was told. A man rented it late on a Friday night. Saturday morning a woman said she heard the man was not going to take it and asked for it, but she wanted some papering and painting done. The agent said he would see the landlord. Not long afterwards another woman went into the office and said she would take the house without any painting and it went to her.

Some families who are moving in the next week, or who have just changed residences in the past few days are:

Prof. Frank W. Jones, from East Cedar avenue to Poplar Grove; William B. Jackson, from Sycamore street to West Green street; Francis Wright from the South Windsor apartments to the E. B. Kitehouse property on Morris avenue, West Side; E. R. Martin of Uniontown to the Ninth street home of his brother-in-law, M. W. Alter, on the West Side, which was recently vacated by A. E. Glatfelter, who moved to Highland avenue; Frank Schomer from 1111 street to South Eighth street, West Side; W. J. McElhinny, general manager of the Young Electric Repair company, from Cedar avenue to 202 East Washington avenue.

Charles N. Burkhardt is moving from Pittsburg street, South Connellsville, to the end of the street car line. John Brindley of the Fuchser addition is moving to the Harry Matson property in West Crawford avenue. Stewart Ringler, the former occupant of the place, has located at Coalbrook.

Forty Killed First News From Blast at Atlas Works Near Scottsdale.

NO EMPLOYEES ARE INJURED

Two Buildings Are Blown Up and Six Others Are Destroyed By Fire Company, Working on Government Order, Will Rebuild, It Is Said.

Two buildings of the plant of the Atlas Powder company, between Hawkeye and West Overton, were destroyed by an explosion late yesterday afternoon while six others were consumed by flames in the resultant fire. As a result of the blast, which occurred just after the day shift had left the plant, Scottsdale and Mount Pleasant were rudely shaken and for hours reports continued to circulate of heavy loss of life. Not a person was injured.

The first explosion occurred in a drying house from causes unknown. A second blast destroyed another of the small buildings which are separated for the express purpose of reducing the danger in event of one going up. The explosions were but a few seconds apart.

Firemen from Scottsdale saved the magazine, the office and other buildings. The firemen arrived within the seventh building had ignited. Mr. Fiesant firemen also responded.

The day shift had quit the plant at a few minutes after 4 o'clock. With the exception of Superintendent T. C. Alcorn it is said all were outside the gate which is kept locked at all times except during the changing of shifts. The night shift would not have come on until 6 o'clock. The first blast

Affects Only Manufacturing, Shipping and Railroad Ends of Steel Corporation.

Employees of the H. C. Frick Coke company will not participate in the latest increase announced by the United States Steel corporation. This information was contained in an authoritative statement received today by The Courier.

CASE IS NEARING THE END

But It Will Not Be Concluded Before Monday. Court Gives Notice to Jurors; Lindley Is Sharply Cross Examined by the Commonwealth.

Taking testimony in the Lindley trial closed at noon today at which time court recessed until Monday at 9 o'clock at which time the arguments will begin.

In the trial of Frank Lindley for the murder of Frank A. Burkey, it was conclusively proved this morning that Hiram Bigam, who was accused by Connellsville police officers of having made threats against the life of Burkey, was not in this city on the night of the murder.

Bigam proved that he was employed in a lumber operation at Edenborn the time of the murder, being engaged by the firm of Trazee & Miller. Chauncey Miller, a partner in the firm, was on the stand this morning in defense of Bigam. He said that on the night of December 18, he and Bigam slept in the same room at Edenborn.

No other important testimony was taken in the forenoon the greatest part of the time being spent in establishing that Bigam was not in this city December 18. Attorney McKean, when cross examining County Detective John Smith, again brought up the question of the "lost, strayed or stolen" bloody newspaper which disappeared mysteriously from the district attorney's office and has caused much comment in the Lindley trial.

With the exception of a few minor witnesses Lindley occupied the witness stand all day Friday and was not finally exonerated until 4:30 o'clock. His direct examination in which he told of his early life and his business dealings with Burkey in great detail as well as of his movements on December 18th, was not completed until 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. He was then required to face the hostile examination by the commonwealth and for two hours and a half Senator Crow and the witness matched wits in a grilling cross examination which has been equalled by few scenes in the Fayette county courts for its excitement and finesse of verbal fencing.

Judge Van Swearingen informed the jury last evening when court adjourned that it would be impossible to complete the case today and that it had been decided to postpone the arguments of the opposing counsel and the charge by the court until Monday.

ABSOLUTE OF THE OFFICIAL SYMBOL THE ONLY DETAIL OVERLOOKED BY THE MAYOR

With the omission of one slight detail there was introduced at the Christian church last evening a custom that has prevailed in England for many generations. There the mayor of the municipality, by virtue of his office and leadership in public affairs, presides at all public gatherings. Mayor Duggan performed that function last evening at the lecture given by Rev. G. W. Buckner and introduced the speaker.

In referring to the custom, as practiced in England, Rev. Buckner pointed out that Mayor Duggan, unlike the mayors of English cities, did not wear the golden chain on his shoulder which is the symbol of the municipality in England. Otherwise Mayor Duggan was performing his function strictly according to the time honored English custom. Acknowledging the compliment and honor of being introduced by the Mayor, Rev. Buckner said:

"I believe that I express the sentiment of the ministers of the city when I say that they have noted with supreme satisfaction and pleasure a number of things the Mayor has done. Speaking personally I can say that I think the Mayor is doing."

WILDEST REPORTS FOLLOW EXPLOSION AT POWDER PLANT

came at 4:20 before the employees got away from the vicinity, but not one received a scratch.

Excitement was greater in the nearby towns and villages than about the plant. At Tarr, where many of the girl employees live, the populace was in a frenzy until the first girls arrived on a trolley car.

At nearby farm houses dishes and crocks were jarred from shelves. At Allea mines windows of abandoned houses were blown in. Homes were shaken at Scottdale and Mount Pleasant.

Hundreds of persons in automobiles and about rushed to the scene of the explosion. Fearing that the death toll might be heavy some one had summoned undertakers. Physicians also were called from Scottdale. State police were ordered to the scene, five of them arriving in an automobile and on motorcycle from Greensburg.

The powder plant is constantly patrolled and no one is permitted to enter the place or loiter about it, owing to the danger.

The plant is owned by the Du Pont company. It will be rebuilt at once, it is stated. The company has been making caps for shells on government order.

TURNING THE CLOCK AHEAD.

There is no actual necessity for citizens to set up until two o'clock tomorrow morning in order to get their clocks ahead one hour to comply with the new daylight saving schedule. We can attend to that by simply moving the clock ahead before retiring. We will arise tomorrow at the same hour of clock having one hour more of daylight for the duties of Easter Sunday, and one hour more of darkness for sleep tomorrow night, thereby evening up the schedule under the new order.

Thus by Monday morning we will find things moving along as they were before we lost the one hour of time when we set the clock ahead. That is really all there is to the change. Things will run by the same clock time but we will be one hour ahead of the sun, giving us more daylight for our recreation, or individual duties
after the work of the day is over.

We will get mixed, though, if we do not turn the clock ahead tonight.

EXTENDING DRAFT AGE.

A bill has been prepared for presentation to Congress for the drafting of men between the ages of 21 and 45 years, the purpose being to call to the service men who can assume certain duties which are now being performed by younger men who, in turn, can be given more active service. The measure has been proposed by Colonel A. C. Dalton, head of the United States Army transport service. In explanation of the bill Colonel Dalton
said:

"We need three men back of the lines to every man in the front, and the selective service act should be changed so that the older men may serve the country. Men of mature judgment and training are required for every sort of service, from mechanics to clerks, and they could render valuable aid."

Men of the age prescribed are, in many instances, not beyond being able to render quite as strenuous service on the firing lines and elsewhere as men under 31 and many of them would be glad of the opportunity to get into the game. Many men above 45 years of age are yet in condition to perform certain duties as effectively, and often with better judgment, than men who are younger. The age limit should, therefore, be extended to include men up to 50 or 55 and provision be made for assignment to such classes of duty as their condition would best fit them.

We must not mortgage the future of our country by subjecting all of our vigorous young manhood to the hazards of war. The older fellows can much better be spared. Within a few years they will have passed the limit of their usefulness. If that period comes at the same time the boys who now of later will form our fighting forces in Europe, in health to render their aid or broken in health to render their aid, our country will be badly equipped to meet the greater problems of making the world over after the war.

Keep the boys of today for the big job of tomorrow. Let the old fellows do their bit on the big job of today.

A soldier would not be a loyal fellow if he did not object to being passed with yellow gas on St. Patrick's day.

Now is the time for all patriotic poultry raisers to come to the aid of their country.

Electing teachers has been the chief business before the school board during the last school year.

Don't forget to turn the clock ahead
tonight and also to turn out in time for Easter services in the morning.

While spending your vacation on the farm don't forget that unless you expend some of your energy your vacation will not be well spent.

WAR GARDENS

To Thoroughly Clean Gardens Plots
Before Making Plantings.

State Zoologist, Sanders has issued a warning to the war gardeners, that they will suffer loss this year unless they clear their plots of the remnants of last year's crops.

The winter came so early last year that many were unable to clear their patches. Consequently, excessive numbers of insects and increased plant diseases threaten the gardeners and farmers this year.

CANNOT STARVE OUT
THE CENTRAL POWERS
SAYS REV. BUCKNER

He believed that, technically speaking, the "several nations" were within their rights in the several steps taken prior to the invasion of Belgium by Germany.
"But the stigma lies not with the individual nations; the war is the result of that condition which has been the outgrowth of secret diplomacy, concert of powers and balance of power.
"When it seemed certain that England would become engaged in the conflict, the people forgot their acquiescence and made passionate effort to keep peace, but when war was declared, they were united as never before when the call to the colors came.
Since then the British soldier has again shown to the world that he can stand more punishment and be ready for more fighting than any other soldier in the world."

Speaking of the part of English women in the war Rev. Buckner said:
"In its prosecution and pushing on to victory they have done as much as any men. More than 1,000,000 women have been added to the army of industrial workers since war began. They have raised millions through the various agencies and are making sacrifices beside which our sacrifices are insignificant in comparison.
"Everybody in England expected a short war and they planned what they would do to or with the Kaiser when the war ended. As the war wore on, and the end seemed farther away, the spirit of the people changed. Before the United States declared war they anxiously inquired what we were going to do. They became a trifle petulant but when we entered the lists against Germany Uncle Sam rose wonderfully in their estimation. 'Wilson is the greater ruler in the world,' the United States is the greatest nation on the earth, and other encomiums were freely pronounced."

Warning us against the expectation that some accident will bring the war to an end, Rev. Buckner said: "We must dismiss from our minds the hope or expectation that starvation of the Central Powers can be accomplished.
The British blockade of Germany has been a failure in that respect. While it there would have been no submarine campaign, Germany is not confronted, as is Great Britain, with this undersea menace in tapping the granaries of the world."

Rev. Buckner was disinclined to regard the Dardanelles campaign as a failure for the British. Without it the interest, sympathy and support of the eastern Allies would probably not have been maintained, while Germany would have been able to concentrate all of her strength and that of her allies on the western front and left the issues there much more in doubt than they are now.

"While I never view that the cause of human freedom, as espoused by Allies must and will prevail, I have had no moment of keener disappointment than when America entered the war. I had hoped that she might come to the warring nations with a message that would make them of one accord to say before God: 'we are all guilty; we have all sinned and come short of the glory.' I hoped that this nation might be able to say, and that the others would heed her voice."

"Come, let us plant our guns; hurl
our flags, heal up bleeding humanity,
and go out of the business of war."
"That did not happen, and now there is nothing for us to do but to go on and on until we fill the place and do the things God has marked out for us to do."

NEWSY NOTES TELL WHAT'S HAPPENING IN THE MILL TOWN

Nearly Five Hundred Articles Contributed for Belgian Relief.

LADIES BUSY PACKING THEM

Have Had Trouble Finding Boxes, So Liberal Was the Response With Clothing; Evolution of the Tin Can Is Explained to High Students.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTSVILLE, March 29.—The garments turned in at the home of Mrs. C. D. Reid for the Belgian relief are being packed. In the history of Scottsville, there has never been such a time when they have been unable to find boxes to pack them. Four hundred and seventy-seven garments were donated. Among these were men's suits that hardly been worn and bed clothing that is soiling in price and is dear to the heart of the housewife. But every woman, man and child in the town seemed to have at heart the welfare of some unfortunate Belgian and had given with this in mind.

Evolution of Tin Can.
Robert Skemp gave a talk to the teachers and students at the high school yesterday afternoon on "The Evolution of the Tin Can." The talk was very interesting and proved to be of great interest to the students.

John Mondelle.
John Mondelle, aged 23 years, died yesterday morning at an early hour at his home on Broadway from pneumonia. Funeral services will be held on Monday afternoon and interment on Monday afternoon and interment on Monday afternoon.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—features faded—appetite poor—you have a bad case in your mouth—a lay, no good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—admirable laxative—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like catalyst—yet have no dangerous after effects.
They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 50c and 25c per box. All druggists. Take one or two nightly and see the pleasing results.

Can You Tell Them Apart?

It is very difficult for any one but an expert to tell the difference between a 50c imitation pearl and a genuine pearl of the same size worth $500—therefore one might buy the 50c imitation because it looks like the genuine article and this is all any pearl has to do.

But—when you can get a genuine Victrola with its repertoire of more than 5000 Victor Records for the same price that you would pay for some other instrument that only lookly like a Victrola, there can remain no question of Victor supremacy.

The proof is in the hearing. Come in any time and we will gladly play any music you wish to hear. We'll explain our system of easy terms too, if desired.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"SHIRLEY KAYE."—A tense story of American life, threaded with a genuine love interest that appeals to all, with Clara Kimball Young appearing in the role of Shirley Kaye, is being shown today. "Shirley Kaye" is a tale of American life today, smart society with exquisitely gowned women and high born nobleman plays before your eyes in its beautiful setting. All is not vanity, however, for Shirley Kaye fights to protect her own "husband" and as a result she is the Alaskan girl-fighter for her man who lies helpless on the ground and the victory is being around him. Developments arise, and Shirley meets them bravely and confidently, overcoming every obstacle, and in her characteristic manner Miss Young interprets the many tense scenes with a winning and sparkling comedy touch, and with a love story of heart interest that grips the audience. Miss Young has a remarkable opportunity for the display of these emotions. In the production Charles Gille plays the role of John Dawson, the young railroad magnate with whom Shirley fights and then falls in love. A selected comedy is included. Monday Harold Lockwood, the favorite screen star, will be in "Broadway Bill," a picture of a merry attraction. The picture is one of those love stories that are to be liked by all. Tuesday "The Life of a Slave Girl," a five part, will be shown. "The Life of a Slave Girl" is a production of Mary Garden, who has been seen in "Thais," a Goldwyn production.

THE SOISON.

The Chester Bishop Players, open a spring stock season at the Soison theater, Monday, April 1, presenting one of this season's best plays, "The Island of Love." A story of beautiful Hawaii, and companion play to "The Bird of Paradise." The Chester Bishop players will change the play twice a week, offering complete scene production of every play offered as they carry their own scenic artist and stage carpenter. Among the supporting company will be found such well known actors as L. R. Musson, Wm. M. Mallett, Will LaRose, John Hoffman, Fred Benson, Frank Brinkman, E. W. Bowman, Virginia Duncan, Zena Addison, Margaret Barrett and others. Matinees will be given only on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

THE ARCADE.

"The Patient Officer" is the title of the bill offered at the Arcade today by Davis Girl Review. It is a bunch of comedy bits which gives the comedians, Billy McCoy and Charlie Davis an opportunity to get funny, and a bunch of pretty girls to disport themselves in songs and dances. Last night it pleased a fair sized audience. There was no afternoon matinee, the Arcade following the custom of all first class theaters in observing Good Friday. The picture was William S. Hart in "A Desperate Chance." Good news is in store for Arcade patrons. The management is forming Sun Booking exchange and an advance sale of $200 for next day's performances and the effort managers have promised the best show they have—Zarow's Polite Company, featuring the Lynch Trio, said to be the cleverest children on the American stage. They were here last summer with another Zarow company and all of Connellsville just raved about them. Other members of the company are: Tenny and Allen, all "Hand and Feet," Hicks and Seymour; Lillian Root, soubrette; and Keltner and Kellner, society entertainers, and a carefully selected chorus of little girls. Charlie Chaplin will be on the screen Monday and Tuesday, and an extra added attraction will be Lore, the Girl Mental Marvel, who does a mind reading act that is equal if not better than that of

OLD AGE A CRIME

Some people are young at 60—red cheeks, ruddy and vigorous. Others are old at 40—joints beginning to stiffen up a bit; step beginning to lag and from its springlike touch occasional touches of pain to the back, feet tired without cause, and possibly a twinge of rheumatism. In most cases these are the danger signals to warn you that the kidneys are not promptly doing their work of throwing off the poisons that are accumulating in the body. To neglect these natural warnings is a crime against yourself. If you have these symptoms you can find prompt relief in GORDON'S MEDICAL KIDNEY PILLS. For more than 200 years this has been the recognized remedy for kidney and bladder ailments. GORDON'S MEDICAL KIDNEY PILLS are imported direct from the laboratories at Haarlem, Holland. Get them at your druggist. Do not take a substitute. It is worse than the disease.

Eva Fay. She will answer all questions upon any subject, and on Wednesday afternoon will hold a private reception at which time she will give a personal interview to all ladies. This is the most expensive bill ever offered at the Arcade and the indications to packed houses at every performance.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE COUNTESS CHARMING."—A Paramount comedy drama, featuring the famous female impersonator, Julian Eltinge. "The Rogue" a King Bee comedy will be shown, featuring the well known comedian, Billy West. Monday, Lillian Walker, the darling of the screen appears in the wonderful drama, "The Last of the Ages." The play depicts the untold alliance of wealth that results in the destruction of all that is good in man. Pulling with heart interest and pathos and a strong trend of humor characteristically portrayed in the acting of Miss Walker, wonderful scenic effects with the employment of thousands of sleep, tremendous sets together with a love theme that would delight the hearts of young and old, all tend to make this a most unusual photo-drama.

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If Kidneys Feel Like Lead or Bladder Bothers.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have headaches and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

RAINBOW'S END

A NOVEL BY REX BEACH

THE IRON TRAIL • THE SPOT-BIRD • HEART OF THE SUNSET

"And he alone shared father's confidence. That sunken garden was all Sebastian's work. No one else was allowed to tend it. Why? I'll tell you. They feared to let anyone else draw Esteban whispered, "In the well," the water. Isabel searched for years; if that treasure had been above ground her sharp nose would have sniffed it out, and now Cuto has moved the very earth."

Rosa sat back disappointed. "So this is your theory?"

"It's more than a theory," the boy insisted. "Look at this!" From the pocket of his cotton trousers he produced an old-looking coin, which he placed in Rosa's hand.

"What's this?" she asked. "It's a Spanish doubloon," he said. "It's the first one I ever saw. Where did you find it?"

"You'll think I'm crazy when I tell you—sometimes I think so myself. I found it in Isabel's hand when I took her from the well!"

Rosa was stricken speechless.

"She clutched it tightly," Esteban hurried on, "but as I made the rope fast her hand relaxed and I saw it in the lantern light. It was as if—well, as if she gave it to me. I was too badly frightened to think much about it, as you may imagine. It was a horrible place, all slime and foul water; the rocks were slippery. But that coin was in her fingers."

Rosa managed to say: "Impossible! Then she must have had it when she fell!"

"No, no! I saw her hands upstretched, her fingers open, in the moonlight."

"It's uncanny. Perhaps—"

"Yes. Perhaps some unseen hand led her to the place so that we should at last come into our own. Who knows? There's no doubt that father hid his money. He turned his slaves into gold, he bought jewels, precious metals, anything he could find. Well, perhaps there were old coins in the lot. The water in the well is shallow; Isabel must have groped this piece from the bottom. Some day I shall explore the hole and—well, see."

Rosa flung her arms rapturously about her brother's neck and kissed him. "Wouldn't it be glorious?" she cried. "Wouldn't it be wonderful, to be rich, and to want for nothing; to have fine clothes and good things to eat? Her lip quivered. "Oh—I'm so hungry."

"Poor little girl!"

"Wait till O'Reilly hears about this," Rosa was all excitement once more. "He'll be glad he came and got me, if he does come."

Esteban caressed her. "He'll come, never fear. I know it. Every time I leave you my heart is in my throat for fear of what may happen in my absence—and yet I can't always be at your side."

"There! You acknowledge that I handicap you. Except for me you would be making a glorious name for yourself."

"Nothing of the sort. More probably I'd be getting myself killed. Not I'd enter this war. We must be brave and patient and think of what is waiting for us at the bottom of that well!"

It was indeed a great piece of luck which had enabled Esteban Varona to buy a half-dozen Mausers from a Spanish soldier. Through Asensio's acquaintance he had profited by the dishonesty of an enemy, and although it had taken all his money to effect the purchase, Esteban considered the sacrifice well worth while. The fire of patriotism burned fiercely in him, as did his hatred of Pincho Cuto; and the four trusty young negroes to whom he had given rifles made with Asensio and himself, an armed party large enough to be reckoned with. These blacks were extreme fellows, and wretched marksmen, but, on the other hand, each and every one had been raised with a machete at his hip and knew how to use it. After a few preliminary forays under Esteban's leadership they had absorbed a lot of discipline and were beginning to feel a military ardor.

In the Cuban field forces there were many negroes, and few of their fellow patriots fought better, or endured the hardships of guerrilla warfare more cheerfully than they. General Antonio Maceo was of mixed blood, and yet his leadership was characterized not only by rare judgment and ability, but also by an exalted abandon of personal bravery. His several brothers rendered Cuba services scarce by less distinguished, and they were but of a few of many dark-skinned heroes. This struggle for independence was no patriotic war; the best stock of the island fought side by side with field hands.

At dawn of the morning following his talk with Rosa, when the members of his command assembled, Esteban was up and ready. He had made his preparations to destroy Pincho Cuto's fields, and since the road over the hills to La Joya was long he had summoned them early.

"Be careful!" Rosa implored him. "I shall die of suspense."

"It is for you to be careful," he laughed. "Keep a good watch, and conceal yourself at the first alarm. However, I think we have taught these bandits a lesson. As for Cuto, he would run to the jungle if he saw us. He has the heart of a mouse." He kissed his sister affectionately, and then rode off at the head of his tattered band.

Rosa waved him a last farewell as he disappeared into the woods, then to occupy herself, she helped Evangelina with what little housework there was to do, later going with her to the garden patch where the viandas grew.

Evangelina's early devotion to her mistress had not diminished with time; if anything, it had deepened. When emancipation came she would have returned to the service of her beloved twins had it not been for Donna Isabel's refusal to accept her. As it was, she and Asensio had married, and by means of Rosa's surreptitious help they had managed to buy this little piece of land. Rosa had practiced self-denial to make the purchase possible, and her self-sacrifice had borne fruit: that act of childish beneficence had created a refuge for Esteban and herself and had opened the negro woman's affection into idolatry.

Evangelina's joy at having the girl to herself, where she could daily see her, touch her, serve her, was tempered only by the knowledge of Rosa's unhappiness. She scolded and tyrannized, she mothered and adored the girl to her heart's content; she watched over her like a hawk; she deemed no labor in her service too exacting. It would have gone ill with anyone who offered harm to Rosa, for Evangelina was strong and capable; she had the arms and the hands of a man, and she possessed the smoldering black temper of Sebastian, her father.

Even in peaceful times few people came to the clearing in the woods, far off from the main-traveled roads of the Yumuri, and the day, as usual, passed uneventfully. Evangelina worked, with one eye upon her Rosa, the other watchfully alert for danger. When evening came she prepared their scanty meal, upbraiding Rosa, meanwhile, for her attempts to assist her. Then they sat for an hour or two on the bench outside the door, talking about Juan O'Reilly and the probable hour of his coming.

When Rosa fretted about her brother, the negroess reassured her. "Don't be frightened, little dove; he has the makings of a great soldier. Now, then, it is growing cool and the night carries fever. Creep into your bed and dream about that handsome lover of yours."

Rosa obeyed, although reluctantly. "I'll sleep for a while," she complained, "then I'll come out and take my turn."

Dawn was still a long way off when, true to her promise, Rosa emerged from the hut with an apology for having slept so long. Evangelina protested, though her eyes were heavy and she had been yawning prodigiously for hours. But for once the girl was firm. Having finally prevailed in her determination, she seated herself in the warm place Evangelina had vacated, and curling her small feet under her, she settled herself, calm in hand, to think of O'Reilly. It was a good time to think, for the jungle was very still and the night like a velvet curtain.

"We had better leave the horses here," Pincho Cuto hesitatingly addressed the dim blur which he knew to be Colonel Cobo. The colonel of volunteers was in a vile temper, what with the long night ride and an error of Cuto's which had considerably lengthened the journey.

"Where is the house?" growled the officer.

"Not far. But the path is rocky and the horses' feet—"

"Yes, yes!" There was a creak of middle leathers and a groan as the colonel dismounted. "Now, my good Cuto," he threatened, "another of your mistakes and I'll give you something to remember me by."

A curt order brought his man out of the saddle. One of their number was detailed to guard the animals, while the rest fell in behind Cuto and followed him up the trail by the starlight.

CHAPTER IX.

Masamora.

The surprise was easily effected, for Colonel Cobo's men were accomplished in this sort of work. Rosa, crouching upon her bench, heard nothing, saw nothing, until out of the shadows beside her human forms materialized. She screamed once, twice; then a palm closed over her mouth and she began to struggle like a cat.

Evangelina, who had waked at the first outcry, met the marauders as they rushed through the door. There were shouts and curses, loudly belated orders, a great scuffling and pounding of feet upon the dirt floor of the hut, the rickety, bark-covered walls bulged and creaked. Over all sounded the shrieks of the negroes battling in the pitch-black interior like an animal in its lair. Then someone set fire to the thatch; the flames licked up the dead palm leaves to the ridgepole, and the surroundings leaped into view.

Rosa saw a swarthy, thickset man in the uniform of a colonel of volunteers, and behind him Pincho Cuto. Tearing the hand from her lips for a moment, she cried Cuto's name, but he gave no heed. Rosa shrieked his name again; then she heard the officer say:

"Where is the young fellow? I hear nothing but the squeals of that common woman."

Evangelina's cries of rage and defiance ceased, and with them the sounds of combat. From the blazing boiler ran two armed men, brushing sparks from their clothing. A third followed, dragging Evangelina by one naked arm.

Rosa felt herself swooning, and she knew nothing of what immediately followed. After a time she felt herself shaken, and heard the colonel addressing her.

"Come, come!" he was saying. "Where is your precious brother and that black fellow?"

"For three years I had been troubled with shortness of breath. I would get so bad at night I could not sleep lying down. I would have to sit up with pillows behind me. I felt all weak and run down, and did not seem to have any strength and on account of my age thought my time for this world was short. I called upon The United Medical Specialists and after a month and a half of treatment I am feeling fine and working every day."

WHAT THE MAIL IS LIKELY TO BRING

The frivolous youth has dickered with a "wife by correspondence" concern; the picture of the pretty girl came and joy reigned within the heart of the youth. He forwarded his money to the fair damsel (fair in picture only) and bouquet in hand eagerly awaits the arrival of the train that bears her to him.

The train arrives, the human freight is unloaded and youth finds his heart fairly throbbing as he stands awaiting his "bundle of loveliness" from the mail order marriage concern. There looms before him in a twinkling an artificially spry, antiquated, homely and ill-dressed sample of the concern's stock in trade and the youth flees back to his home city to search out one of its products.

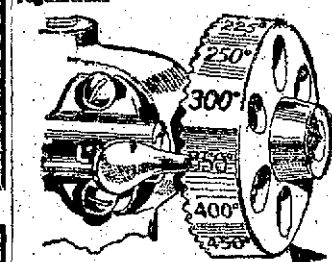

The same is true in every-day business life with thousands of persons. They fall prey to the pretty pictures in the catalogue, send their money to the mail order house and in conclusion are greeted with merchandise that corresponds in appearance with the frivolous youth's mail order bride.

MORAL:—Even a picture is often "powder and paint" when the camera clicks.
